Forecast For Wales
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Sunday 26 Dec 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Turning dry overnight, with murky conditions developing in the east.

This Evening and Tonight:
Any isolated evening showers will steadily ease to leave a dry night, and with some clear skies across westernmost districts. However, central and eastern areas will become very misty and murky, with foggy conditions developing over hills. Minimum temperature 1 deg C (34 deg F).

Monday:
Rain spreads northeast Monday morning, giving all parts a spell of wet weather. The rain should turn showery later, but there could still be heavy downpours, especially in the south. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Changeable conditions prevail throughout the next few days, with spells of rain interspersed some drier, brighter interludes. Strong winds on Wednesday and Thursday and becoming increasingly mild.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.